

Contagious and threatening, a virus affected us all.

Overnight, the country was plunged into lockdown and

Rainbows began to adorn our windows.

Obediently, people remained indoors and

Normal life was transformed beyond recognition.

Activity was limited.

Virtual meetings, virtual sleepovers, virtual quizzes became normal;

Illness had spread all around the world.

Rapidly, the virus attacked our care homes and hospitals.

Uncertain when this would end, we continued to homeschool.

Social distancing was part of our lives then and will be in the future.
